Fund Manager's Comment

The Halal Fund return for Q1 2025 stood at 15.07%, delivering above 80% of the benchmark rate (19.38%). We saw marginal increase in bond and money market yields before they moderated alongside with the technical fall in inflation number amid the rebasing of CPI and GDP. Interest rate on Mudarabah increase slightly adjusting with the initial general rise in money market rate – the increase was sustained because we locked-in rate for a longer tenor. In the period under review, we positioned more in Mudarabah investment to boost return on the Fund as short-term maturities were more attractive than long-term maturities.

Strategy

We expect bond and money market rates to increase slightly in the short term amid trade war fears. Hence, we intend to key into Sukuk bond to lock-in rate at the point of reflection. Also, we would play more on the short to mid-term of Mudaraba Investment and Shari'ah-compliant Fixed Term Investment amid expectation of interest rate volatility.
